

“Abanunule (The Redeemed)” Special Screening

Feature Film Shot at an Orphanage in Uganda:

The movie you are about to see is a feature film shot entirely in Uganda, starring orphans as the leading actors and supporting roles. The story is based on their lives but it is not a documentary. They are acting in a movie. They joined together with filmmaker Alex Fournier, from Minnesota, to write and shoot a feature film. They are now entering it in film festivals to gain recognition and distribution for their work. This is a special screening so that more people can see what they have done.

The film is 100 minutes long and is presented in Luganda, one of the native languages of Uganda, with English subtitles. We have provided comment sheets if you would like to give encouragement or specific feedback to the actors, filmmakers or composers. This way you can speak directly to the orphans about their accomplishment. From living on the streets of Kampala, Uganda, to the big screen, these children are a testament to what God can do in your life if you don't give up. We hope you enjoy the show.

Thumbnail Synopsis:

Set on the streets of Kampala, Uganda, “Abanunule” follows the fall and redemption of Freddy, a former street orphan, as he turns away from his positive life at a boys’ home to return to drugs and violence on the streets.

Visionary Statement From the Director:

There are beautiful voices out there, voices that would make you cry, that would make you laugh, that would make you stand up and cheer, that would even compel you to action, but these voices are fragile and untapped. There are people who don't know that their voices have the power to change the world.

I made “Abanunule” to show the former orphan boys of “Home Again” in Kampala, Uganda, that their stories are worth telling, and to teach them that they do indeed have a voice and it is worth listening to. I also wanted to reach out to the orphans who still remain on the streets of Uganda and to give them a message of hope and redemption. And, finally, I wanted to demonstrate to Americans that orphans in the third world are more than just images on an infomercial about sending money; they are individuals who have dreams of their own, struggles of their own and a voice of their own. I chose to create a feature film with the boys of “Home Again” to prove to them that hard work and dedication, along with a little of today's technology, can give their voices and their priceless stories a chance to be heard.

“Abanunule (The Redeemed)” www.abanunule.net

©Worldchangingfilms 2008

Let The Orphans Hear Your Voice:

We want you to share your own voice with the orphans/actors. Tell them what you thought of their performance in “Abanunule.” Tell them how they made you feel. Share your thoughts. Encourage their dreams. Tell them what you would tell your own kids. Let your voice be heard on the other side of the world by orphans who are finding a family and a home once again. You can also send comments to: abanunulethemovie@yahoo.com

What did you think of the story?

---

---

---

What did you think of the boys’ acting?

---

---

---

Other Comments:

---

---

---

Sign up if you would like to get news and updates about “Abanunule (The Redeemed)” in film festivals and other screenings.

Name:

---

Email:

---

Return your comment pages to your screening director or mail to:

World Changing Films
16301 Lincoln Lane
Eden Prairie, MN 55344

“Abanunule (The Redeemed)” www.abanunule.net

©Worldchangingfilms 2008